RESEARCH EXPERIENCES

Doctoral Dissertation at UNC-Chapel Hill

- Home Shared Reading Resources and Experiences Among Families of Children Who Cannot Rely on Speech to Be Heard and Understood: A Mixed Methods Study
  - Quantitative: Designed and administered online parent surveys; compared shared reading resources and experiences between children who cannot rely on speech and typically developing, speaking peers, and modeled associations among spoken language ability, parental expectations, and shared reading practices using ordinal logistic regression and path/mediation analysis
  - Qualitative: Conducted semi-structured parent interviews to explore lived experiences of shared reading, including its challenges and strategies, using Charmaz's constructivist grounded theory
  - Mixed methods: Integrate quantitative and qualitative findings to identify convergence and divergence in home shared reading resources and experiences

Research Assistant at Center for Literacy & Disability Studies, Department of Health Sciences, UNC-Chapel Hill

- Work under the direction of Drs. Karen Erickson and Lori Geist
- Project Open (Administration for Community Living, National Institute on Disability, Independent Living, and Rehabilitation Research, #90DPCP0007)
  - Developed AAC prototypes in the Open-Source Design and Programmer Interface (OS-DPI)
  - Supervised and supported a master's level research assistant on the integration of AI tools into the OS-DPI
  - Collected data on in-person interactions mediated by AAC technologies among dyads that include adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities who use AAC
  - Led Maker Day sessions at ATIA conference for hands-on experience in the use of OS-DPI in 2024 and 2026
- Translated professional development modules in Project Core (U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs, #H327S140017) into Traditional Chinese
- Supported data collection for the Building Bridges project (U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs, # H327S190005)
- Supported data analysis and dissemination for Minimizing Text Complexity with AI (U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs, #327S240014)

- Supported data collection, analysis, and dissemination for The Prevalence and Form of CVI in Angelman Syndrome (Angelman Syndrome Foundation)
- Support developing tools for professional in measuring and monitoring progress in interactions with students with extensive support needs in Project Converse (Engelke Family Foundation)
- Support video coding and dissemination regarding aided language input in SLP-child interaction
